The Whenever-Window Circuit

Your day doesn't run on a schedule. Neither does this.

Grab it the second a window opens - nap time, a show on pause. One 3-move circuit, one timer. Catch it once today? That's a full win.

3

Flutter Kicks

Lower back pressed flat, legs straight, small fast kicks.

40 sec / 50-60 reps

REAL TALK

One circuit is a win. For a real calorie burn, aim for 3-4 windows across the day - still under 10 minutes total, still on your terms.

The 10-Minute Desk-Break Set

One set. One break. Same one every time.

No equipment, no changing clothes - low-sweat enough to walk straight back into your next meeting. 10 min of bodyweight work on break, a few times a week, is enough to build real strength.

FOR A REAL BURN

3 full rounds back-to-back ~ 10 minutes - that's the target, not just 1. Same low-sweat moves, still work-clothes-ready after.

The Recovery Reset

This isn't a workout. You already did that today.

Your shift already gave you the activity - your body needs to recover, not exert more. Piling on intensity backfires when you're already fatigued. Same routine for every level; recovery isn't a fitness-level problem.

EXTRA EXERTION

BEFORE YOUR SHIFT - WAKE THE BODY UP

1

Arm Circles (fwd + back)

Big slow circles, half forward, half back.

60 sec

2

Torso Twists

Feet planted, rotate side to side at the waist.

60 sec

3

Leg Swings / Hip Circles

Swing each leg, then circle hips both ways.

60 sec

4

March in Place

Steady pace, knees to hip height.

60 sec

AFTER YOUR SHIFT - LET IT GO

1

Toe Touches (Hamstrings)

Reach for your toes, soft knees, hold gently.

90 sec / Hold

2

Cross-Body Arm Stretch

Pull one arm across your chest, hold, switch.

90 sec / Hold

3

Quad Stretch

Pull heel to glute, knees together, hold, switch.

90 sec / Hold

NOT A CALORIE-BURN DAY?

That's on purpose - your shift is your cardio. Want extra burn on a day off? Borrow the Desk-Break Set from the Office page.

The Bell-Schedule Set

One fixed 10 minutes. Timer runs out, you're done.

Your day runs on bells, not on 'whenever I feel like it.' You're on your feet moving all day, unlike a desk job -- so this is its own circuit, not a copy of one. Same low-sweat, no-equipment constraint, triggered before the first bell or during your prep period.

ABOUT THIS GUIDE

Why this works

One routine per schedule. No swapping, no deciding - just press go.

THE RESEARCH

Lack of time is the #1 reason Black women give up on staying active. Even 3-4 min/day of real movement is linked to 40% lower mortality risk (BJSM cohort study).

THE HAIR FACTOR

1 in 3 Black women skip workouts to protect their hair. Every routine here defaults to low-sweat - pineapple your ponytail and go.

BEFORE YOU START
